'Bank examiner' trick

Local woman nearly bilked out of $2,100

A 63-year-old Campbell woman came close to losing $2,100 through the "bank examiner" bunko scheme last week, according to police reports.

The woman received a call from a "cultured" man who called himself "Mr. Kirby." He seemed well acquainted with the operations of her bank and asked for her help in investigating one of the tellers.

He seemed so convincing, the woman told police, she agreed to help. "Mr. Kirby" then told her to wait for a call from him because he had to get a camera set up at the bank. A half hour later the call came and the woman agreed to withdraw the $2,100 from her account. She went to the First National Bank, located in the Campbell Plaza and withdrew the funds.

After returning home, as instructed, she was again called by the suspect. At this time "Mr. Booker" arrived at her home to pick up the funds.

The woman's dogs were barking at the visitor, she said, so she went out to greet him. When she asked for identification, the man said he had none. Although suspicious, the woman still invited the man into the house. When he refused, she left him outside and went to talk with "Mr. Kirby" who was still waiting on the phone. As she explained the situation to him, she heard the second suspect leaving hurriedly. "Mr. Kirby" laughed, the reports say, after hearing what had happened and advised her to redeposit her money.

After returning the funds to the bank the woman contacted the bank headquarters to ask about the investigation. After learning there was no such investigation the woman notified police.

The man who called himself "Mr. Kirby" was described by the woman as a latin male, in his 30's, about 5 feet, 8 inches, 140 pounds and wearing a mustache. The second man, "Mr. Booker," was described as a caucasian male between 50 and 60 years of age.

Campbell youth charged in robbery incident

A 13 year-old Campbell boy is in juvenile hall charged with armed robbery after an incident last week in which two 11 year-old youngsters were robbed at gunpoint of $1.50 and one of them pistol-whipped.

According to police reports, the boy and girl were returning home from Fry's market where they bought some milk and small cakes when they were stopped by a youth on a bicycle in a nearby vacant lot.

The two were reportedly threatened with a hand-gun, and when the boy told the youth he didn't have any money he was hit in the mouth with the barrel of the revolver.

According to police, the girl told the assailant the money was in the grocery bag and started to run. She was slapped by the youth before he fled.

One child suffered a swollen lip and redmarks on his neck from the attack. The other suffered a swollen cheek. Police later questioned a suspect and placed him under arrest.

Dymally speaks to Kenna club

State Senator Mervyn Dymally will address the Kenna club at the University of Santa Clara on Dec. 28 at a luncheon meeting in Benson center on the campus.

Now in his 12th year in the California legislature, Senator Dymally is chairman of the Senate Democratic caucus. He has successfully authored bills concerned with mandatory teaching of ethnic history in public schools, child care centers, head start, career education, women's rights and sex discrimination.

Reservations may be made for this event by calling the university's alumni office, 984-4464.

Planners to decide trailer park zoning

A proposed mobile home park adjacent to Los Gatos creek will highlight the first planning commission meeting of the new year on Monday, Jan. 7. It will also be the issue of the study session on Thursday, Dec. 27.

The session will be the last Monday night meeting (the commission will meet Thursdays starting Jan. 24), and a new chairman (Bob Stewart) and a new vice-chairman (Myron Alexander) will take office Jan. 7.

The mobile home park issue involves a zone change application from M-2-S (industrial) to P-D (planned development) on the creek off Camden avenue. The hearing on the zone change was continued at the last meeting to allow the plans for the mobile home park to be examined by the parks and recreation commission at a study session on Dec. 27.

The session will be held in the council chambers at 7:30 p.m. In addition to the parks and recreation commission, members of the Los Gatos creek committee and the flood control district have been invited. The applicants, Brandenburg, Staedler and Moore, are also expected to attend.

Other matters on the planning commission agenda on Jan. 7 include the application of Frank Messina on behalf of W. F. Batton Co. for an industrial building at 1360 Whiteoaks, and the application of Ray Torres to convert two residential buildings at 280 and 290 W. Hamilton into offices.

In another application before the commission, Kenneth Rominger is seeking permission to change a drug store use for a building at 2075 Winchester (the former Aero Pharmacy) into a retail liquor store.

George Van Sickle has also submitted plans for four industrial buildings at 501 and 504 Vandell Way.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS for 1974 for the Planning Commission will take place at the first meeting of the new year (Jan. 7) when Myron Alexander (left) will be named vice-chairman and Bob Stewart (right) will become chairman. Alexander and Stewart were the sole nominees for the positions. Stewart served as vice-chairman last year under Don Hebard (standing). The Jan. 7 meeting will be the last Monday meeting for the commission. At the last meeting, the commission voted to meet on the first and third Thursdays starting the second week in January.

Special purpose districts form a countywide group

Representatives of special purpose districts within Santa Clara county have formed an association, named seven directors and adopted by-laws.

According to the by-laws, purpose of the organization is to propose and advocate constructive means for the improvement and functioning of special districts within the county. In addition, the association will assist the special districts in fostering communication and cooperation between the districts.

The aim also will be to prevent duplication of services and to sponsor consolidation of various districts, if such consolidation will result in public benefit.

Each member district is entitled to one voting representative and an alternate and the association will be governed by seven directors. A director must be an officer, employee or member of the governing body of a member district.

Those elected to the first board of directors were: Joe Colla, director, Sanitation District No. 4; Bruce Franks, commissioner, Central Fire district; Vince S. Garrod, director, Black Mountain Resource conservation district; Curtis B. Harrison, director, Cupertino sanitary district; Maurice R. Johnson, director, Purissima Hills county water district; Baker McGinnis, administrator, Saratoga fire district. The seventh directorship will be filled upon approval of the district's governing board.

ALL SET FOR delivering holiday baskets and toys is Roy Kropff, education commissioner from the First United Methodist church of Campbell. The joint effort by the Kiwanis Club of Campbell and the church provided gifts and food to more than 40 local families this year.

Gas tax funds

City council study session on downtown loop system

Campbell's city council will not meet until Jan. 14 but the councilmen will participate in two study sessions before that date.

One of the sessions (Jan. 8) will involve the status of the loop system in the downtown area and the other will be a joint meeting (Jan. 7) with the trustees of the Campbell Union (elementary) district concerning recreation programs for the community.

The city council has some important policy decisions to make concerning the development of the long-pending loop streets that will parallel Campbell avenue between the railroad tracks and Third street, according to the plan lines that have been adopted.

The city's final budget allocates $152,600 from gas tax funds during the 1973-74 fiscal year for rights-of-way acquisitions for the loop streets.

Appraisals have also been completed for all the parcels that will be needed for both loops.

But the council has made no decision to date as to which of the two loops (north or south) should have priority. Originally the north loop (because of the city hall and library) had been considered in official city circles to have precedence over the south loop.

However, the development of the "Factory" which is converting the former Sunsweet operation into a cultural, commercial and entertainment center, has put the south loop in an improved position.

But in addition to the establishing of the priority on the loops, some councilmen have expressed concern as to how far the city should go in the development of the loops in the commitment of future gas tax funds.

The energy crisis has raised the question about effects this policy will have on the future gas tax situation.

Councilmen, trustees to discuss community recreation program

Joint financing and administration of a community recreation program will be discussed at a meeting between Campbell city councilmen and elementary school district trustees on Monday, Jan. 7.

The meeting will be held at 5:30 p.m. in the board room of the school district at 155 N. Third St. The trustees and councilmen will have an informal dinner meeting following the joint study session.

Superintendent Jim D'Avis will describe the past, present and possible future roles in recreation programming and the use of school district facilities.

City Manager Bob Stephens will review the study of the city's role in recreation and summarize the recommendations made by the Citizens Advisory Goals committee.

An ad hoc committee, comprised of representatives of the Youth commission, the Civic Improvement commission and the Parks and Recreation commission, has also studied the recreation program and the members of this group are also expected to participate in the discussion.

Chief announces

Officers named to captain, lieutenant posts

Police Chief Don Burr has announced the appointments of Ron Eddlemon as captain and Frank Furtaw as a lieutenant in the Campbell police department.

A vacancy for captain was created when Capt. Larry Kelly accepted a position in San Rafael as deputy police chief. The present police chief of San Rafael plans to retire in June. Eddlemon, who joined the force in 1958 and was promoted to sergeant in 1961, was tops in the examination for captain. (Eddlemon had been slated to become lieutenant in January when the captaincy became open.)

Eddlemon, 39, is a native of Campbell and is the first Campbell High graduate to join the Campbell police department. He and his wife, Ruth, who have been married for 18 years, have four children.

Furtaw, 38, was originally hired as a police reserve in 1958 and was employed as a patrolman in 1961. He was promoted to sergeant in 1964. He and his wife, Louise, who also have been married for 18 years, have three children.

Furtaw has been in the juvenile division and Eddlemon has been in the detective division in the department.

Trustees review energy saving recommendations

Thermostats have already been reduced to 68 degrees throughout the Campbell Union (high) school district, but student representatives say they have not noticed the change.

At the Thursday afternoon meeting, trustees reviewed the district's response to the energy crisis. Reducing the water temperature of instructional swimming pools from 80 to 76 degrees, and eliminating transportation of non-competitor groups to away athletic events were two of the 30 recommendations presented last week.

While the lowering of thermostats in classrooms has not produced a noticeable change, trustees heard that due to the radial heating systems used other buildings haven't fared so well. At the district office, for example, some employees have begun wearing sweaters. That building uses forced air heating.

The comprehensive program contained three-tiered recommendations. Some steps are already completed or are in the process, some are "immediate" steps, and others are termed "phase-in" measures.

The latter group has not been instituted at this time but is under serious consideration. A few of the "phase-in" steps include eliminating activity transportation outside the county, eliminating field trips for rewards (such as Sneak day and the College of San Francisco trip), and use of outdoor facilities whenever possible in physical education classes.

Some of the immediate steps are a review of all educational field trips to determine if the activities are essential to the learning process, elimination of all community services transportation and decorative lighting in the district (such as shrubbery lights on school buildings).

Other immediate steps are to "diligently supervise" the shower rooms in the girls-boys PE program to make sure hot water is turned off when not in use and set a reasonable limit for showering time.

Curtailing the use of facilities at night for community meetings and encouraging employee car pools whenever practical were also listed.

In other business, trustees:

- Adopted a resolution instructing the district's legal counsel to file a legal protest and "such litigation as is required" in response to the Environmental Protection agency rulings.
- Held a public hearing on a resolution of intention to sell real property to the Santa Clara Flood Control and Water district and to allow temporary use of a parcel during flood control construction. (The area is located behind Westmont high school).

SJSU starts energy saving plans

State regulations and suggestions are being implemented, and the university has added other means of conserving energy.

Plans are already underway to cut the miles driven in state vehicles by 10 per cent under the total of the last fiscal year. Outdoor decorative lighting near campus buildings has been eliminated, including the lighting of historic Tower Hall at night. Light levels in corridors of buildings and the parking garages have been reduced, cooling units for water fountains have been eliminated, heating and cooling levels for buildings have been established and lights are turned off earlier on the campus at night.

"Our major concern," said Bunzel, "is to protect the health and safety of everyone on campus and the viability of our instructional program at the same time we are doing our part to conserve energy."

In a memo to all members of the campus community, Bunzel indicated that a general plan is being developed to determine priorities for energy usage and to examine further energy conservation measures. He asked for counsel and cooperation from the campus to enable the university to meet its obligations during the current crisis.

Law student takes out papers for city council election

Timothy William Dixon, 916 Bucknam ave., has taken out papers for the city council election.

The 23 year-old Campbell man is a graduate of Campbell High school, the University of the Pacific, and is presently a second year law student at the University of Santa Clara.

Dixon is the first non-incumbent to take out papers for the March 5 election. Deadline for filing for city offices is Thursday, Dec. 27 at noon.

A Layman
and his milieu

'Maybe you don't educate anyone by writing anything, but you do educate yourself'

He's a writer and he has opinions-- he sends letters

By SUSAN COHEN

THE MAN WHO CALLS himself Abil Layman settled back as comfortably into his philosophy as into his couch, a man resigned to his fate.

His fate is a rare one, to be one of the angry letter writers of the world.

"Once you begin to write," he said, "that's too bad because you pull the cork out."

Abil Layman began his letter writing career at the age of 55, five years ago, with a letter to Congressman Charles Gubser asking "if we had a weakened position in the Indian ocean."

"It was an ego trip," he confessed. "You think you have something to say and that people will read your letters."

"THE NEXT YEAR," he went on, "you have a different idea of what people do with your letters."

After being deluged with newsletters instead of personal replies, Abil Layman changed his tactics. Three years ago, he adopted his pseudonym and began circulating a monthly letter to 200-300 politicians, TV personalities, college professors and neighbors. "A Layman's Milieu," as he calls it, broadcasts his views on everything from conservation to race to everyone from local city council members to John Chancellor at NBC news.

("John Chancellor will answer your letters," Abil Layman explained. "Channel 4 and 5 locally won't.")

WHY DOES HE DO IT?

Abil Layman is a writer. He retired from the hotel business and, since then, has completed five unpublished novels (including two good spy stories with psychic touches). "When you get it out and get it out well," he said, "you feel like God."

"Maybe you don't educate anyone by writing anything, but you do educate yourself."

Since he worried about the "ego trip," he took on an anonymity.

"You're freer when you don't have to answer to your opinion," he laughed. "All my neighbors get this thing but don't know I write it and I can go down to city council meetings and they don't know me."

"Besides," he said getting serious, "somewhere between now and disaster you have got to do the business of living without applause."

BUT EVEN WITH THESE precautions, the crowded backroom contains a cabinet full of responses, neatly tied together according to year: a letter from U.S. Senator Vance Hartke, disagreeing with one viewpoint, a letter from a local county supervisor commenting that the letters give him occasion to think and sometimes to laugh.

"Here's a good one," Abil Layman said, chuckling over one entitled "The Mineta Machine." "Once upon a time," it began, "a whole town awakened and found it was being run by a political machine."

"I'm a rock-ribbed conservative Republican," he said. "But I have met people who didn't believe as I did and discovered they weren't all kooks, or bubble heads. Then you have to listen."

ABIL LAYMAN PACKS his letters with quotes, William James, Alan Watts, John Steinbeck and John Ruskin among his favorites.

His themes come from books he picks up, a common theme being the interrelationship of all life on earth.

"You can't live in this world without every person in it," he said, "that's what Alan Watts wrote."

But his letters are not all restricted to politics.

"I'm a football television nut," he said. "And sometimes I get mad as hell at a game."

Then, Abil Layman admitted, "I sit down and write letters to people about the rules."

Supervisors order audit of VMC billing procedures

County supervisors ordered a management audit to look into the complex and confused billing procedures at Valley Medical center last week.

The board voted unanimously for the study at the suggestion of county executive Howard Campen who had been angered by a recent System Development corporation (SDC) study.

That study was undertaken at the request of the hospital staff and recommended that SDC operate a computer at the medical center.

"My office had no knowledge of that report," Campen said. "SDC never talked to a representative of our data processing staff."

Usually, the board of supervisors approves consulting contracts.

"I hope no one here infers that we are unhappy with the work the hospital has done," Campen said. A recent grand jury report, which was not mentioned, criticized the hospital's accounting procedures.

Campen noted that changing state programs have caused foul-ups in health financing and that newly proposed federal programs could change the situation again.

"We should look at the whole new array of possible problems and considerations," Campen said. He also requested creation of a new hospital informations system specialist. Final plans for the audit and the new position are due back to the board in 60 days.

County hot meal program begins in February

One hot meal a day for 900 elderly people in Santa Clara county will be provided beginning about Feb. 1.

The supervisors gave final approval for the program last week, agreeing that the meals should be free to anyone who cannot afford them. Others will be asked to pay a fee on a sliding scale up to $2.50 a meal.

The meals will be served at 12 locations throughout the county run by private organizations and transportation will be provided through county staff and volunteers.

The county share of the cost will be $41,833, with the rest of the costs picked up by the state ($574,138), revenue sharing funds ($160,000) and hoped for payments for the meals ($58,500).

Local officials say they are confident the state will come up with its share of the funds despite recent reports of state foul-ups in the meals for the elderly program.

OUT ON THE LIMB

with George Vierhus

PRIOR TO 1968, the Chamber of Commerce annually cited a member as a "member-of-the-year."

In most instances the citation went to a past president or to a CofC member who had brought in the most members during the year.

But the award that was made in January, 1968, based on community activities during the previous 12 months was not given to a Chamber of Commerce member.

That was the year, one might say, when the scope of the annual award was widened and it became truly a citizen-of-the year thing and not just limited to CofC members.

And that's the way it has been since.

Don Hebard, who had headed the citizens group that was instrumental in getting the civic improvement bonds passed in 1967, was the recipient of the award that year.

Why do we know so much about it?

We served as president of the Chamber of Commerce during 1967 and it was our idea that the award be expanded to take in the entire community and not just limited to CofC people.

It was fairly easy to choose the citizen-of-the-year for 1967 because of the stellar work that Don and his citizens committee had done, first in the study of the city's needs and then in the bond campaign.

As immediate past president of the Chamber of Commerce, we also served on the selection committee the next year also when Jeanette Watson was honored.

(For obvious reasons that year the award was changed to "citizen-of-the-year" from "man-of-the-year.")

Jeanette had served as vice-chairman under Hebard in the bond drive and had long been active in civic affairs.

As we look back, we feel that expanding the award to encompass the community was one of the major highlights of our term as Chamber of Commerce president.

ON JANUARY 18 at the annual installation dinner-dance of the Chamber of the Commerce, the award will be given to the citizen-of-the-year.

It is a well-kept secret until then, except for those who are privy to the situation, i.e., members of the very exclusive selection committee.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations have received ballots and nomination coupons have appeared in The Press (this week and last).

But the ultimate choice will be made by this very exclusive group we were telling you about, past citizen-of-the-year winners...

Homer Hyde, 1973 winner, is the chairman. Other members are, Norm Paul, '72; the Rev. Ben Gould, '70; Jeanette Watson, '69 and Don Hebard, '68.

Neal Royer, '71, is living in Atascadero and was unable to serve on the committee this year.

Nominees must be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce office by Jan. 7, 1974.

Then Campbell's most exclusive club takes over. But no minutes are kept.

ONE OF THE TRADITIONAL yuletime events of this community is the unique Christmas program that the Rev. W. H. (Ben) Gould conducts for the Campbell Kiwanis club.

Ben has put his program on for quite a number of years and, although most of the Kiwanians moan a lot about it, they cooperate and contribute.

According to the Kiwanis bulletin, the affair is called "Ben's Big Rip-Off."

The money raised at this one luncheon meeting each year has made Christmas for hundreds of families in this area.

The funds Ben gets from his extraction action at the Kiwanis club makes it possible to fill Christmas baskets for needy families in the community.

Obviously there are many Kiwanians who are not enthusiastic contributors. But staying away from the meeting doesn't help. They will probably be tapped at the next meeting for more than if they had been present at the original gouging.

According to Rex Jeffers, club president, Ben's "take" this year was a new high.

Rex estimates that more than $1000 will go into the Christmas basket fund as a result of Ben's efforts this year.

And that's a lot of dough to be raised in a 45-minute period in any league, even in inflationary times.

We have reported the program before in this column. It has always impressed us and we never cease to be amazed at the good-natured manner the Kiwanians shell out their dough.

Ben, of course, as the pro he is always has done his homework. The "reasons" he gives for extracting the donations from each individual generally has the other members rolling in the aisles while the "victim" digs.

One Kiwanian, at Ben's bash this year, contributed twice as much as the original "fine" Ben had levied.

Of course, Ben was willing.

Result: Jack paid twice as much.

Especially at Christmastime.

IN A RECENT EDITORIAL we emphasized the need for more bike routes and trails.

We suggested that bicycling is valuable from both the exercise and recreational viewpoints and maintained that it could reduce smog, if taken up on a wide enough basis.

Doug Hebard, a member of the Youth Commission, a group that has been working diligently to get regular bike trails and routes established, commended us for the editorial.

George Lewis, a Campbell district teacher, a real bike pro, who has pedalled to school from his home on Budd for many years, also thought the editorial was good.

Lewis took exception to comments made by critics of the bike program, which we also have reported. These critics have told us (over the phone) that bikes and their riders are menaces and should be prohibited from the thoroughfares.

Lewis thought these were unfair charges because they were comparing apples and oranges. He pointed out that there are no bike lanes to speak of now so naturally both the bicyclist and the motorist are at a disadvantage.

A bike lane, Lewis points out, would make the motorist aware that bike riders were around. And likewise the bicyclist would keep in a regular lane.

That makes sense to us because we are a scaredy-cat when it comes to pedaling our bike down a main drag.

BUT NOW COMES A letter this week from Robin P. Sandiland on Old Orchard road.

He is a long-time cyclist of some 40 years standing (sitting?) (pedaling?).

Quite sarcastically he takes after us: "It is nice and bright of you to acknowledge the existence of an efficient and pleasurable mode of transportation," he submits.

And then reminds us that the bicycle has been around for 120 years, many years before the auto that is responsible for many of the ills that beset us today.

And here is part we like (?) best of all: "Cycling does not need ecology, fuel shortages and half-baked blatherings of ignorant motorized penmen to justify its existence." ". . . half-baked blatherings of ignorant motorized penmen . . ."

WE THOUGHT the letter opened up a brand new field, a sort of a third dimension, bicycling speaking.

The letter writer is against the bicyclist supporter who proposes bike lanes. He also feels that the competent cyclist can hold his own on the road with the motorists and that the bike rider should be shown every consideration by other road users.

Undoubtedly our letter writer has had more experience than we have had on the two-wheel vehicle. But we still think that it is a mismatch for a bike and car to tangle.

And we disagree vehemently with the statement, "The last thing that any competent cyclist would need is a bike path, way or route for his exclusive use."

Of course we may not be a "competent cyclist."

". . . half-baked blatherings of ignorant motorized penmen."

AND MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU, TOO.

Editorial

Disclosure law a good idea

New amendments to the state election code have made it mandatory for members of governing bodies, boards and commissions to file a financial disclosure statement.

It is interesting to note, for example, on the local municipal level that not only will elected officials have to file this disclosure statement but members of the planning commission, planning officers, city manager, and other chief administrative officers must also do the same.

One section requires each person appointed (or nominated) for public office to file a disclosure statement 10 days or more before he is confirmed or assumes office.

Another section requires the public officials to file a statement within 30 days after ceasing to hold office.

Other officials must file a disclosure statement during April each year and non-incumbent candidates at the time he files his nomination papers must also file a disclosure statement.

The disclosure statement, among other things, must show all investments in a business entity worth more than $1,000; a description of any real property he is interested in whose fair market value is worth more than $1,000; and the source of income, loans, or gifts in excess of $250 received in the previous 12 months.

All of us must concede there is some merit to this financial disclosure procedure.

We think it is important that the electorate becomes aware of any financial conflict of interest which may involve an elective official or an appointive one in a position of responsibilitiy.

We concede, however, that the amendments to the election code may be too strict and that some highly respected officials will step out of public office because of them.

Some will claim it is an outright invasion of privacy to divulge these financial matters of such personal nature. They maintain that they will become sitting ducks for fast buck artists and others of the same ilk.

While we agree that the code may now be too severe, we also submit that the public does have a right to know if an official has a financial interest in some issue or project that is before the governing body.

Just make the shoulders wider

EDITOR:

Regarding your editorial on page 6 of your issue dated Dec. 12.

It is nice and bright of you to acknowledge the existence of an efficient and pleasurable mode of transportation.

May I remind you that the bicycle has been around for some time, roughly 120 years, many years before the vehicle responsible for many of the ills that beset us today. Cycling does not need ecology, fuel shortages and the half-baked blatherings of ignorant motorized penmen to justify its existence.

The last thing the competent cyclist would need is a bike path, way or route for his exclusive use. The cycle did much to open up and improve the roadways of Europe and the Americas. The cyclist has paid more than his fair share for the roadways in local taxes, and contributes negligible wear and tear on this public property. He is justly entitled to use of the highways and should be shown every consideration by other road users. Likewise, it is his duty to consider the rights of other users, be they pedestrians, equestrians or drivers of motorized vehicles.

In another place in your publication, you advise the cyclist to dismount at busy intersections. In my 40 years of cycling I have never found this to be necessary, advisable or even desirable.

The state of California this year is misleading the public while sending out its requests for registration of motor vehicles.

It is inferring that a cyclist would be riding in front of and out from behind parked cars. This is, of course, utter nonsense. No cyclist should allow himself to get into such a position where he has to swing out from behind a parked car. He should be riding at least three feet out from the curb, and if there are parked cars, he should be a similar distance out from them. He should be riding fast enough so that he will automatically be riding in a straight line and will not be switching his direction unless he is going to make a legal turn. If a motorist feels that the progress of his mighty juggernaut is being impeded by a cyclist, then he should insist that the roadway to the right of the cyclist be maintained in a fashion comparable to the portion of the roadway which he uses.

This should end all asinine talk about bikeways and similar stupidity.

DON FALCK, an emphysema patient and member of the Emphysema club of the local American Lung Association, takes a treatment on a breathing machine similar to those which will be loaned out to needy patients by the Lung Association.

Program to loan breathing machines to needy planned

Ruth Barstow, Doctor of Nursing Science, and chairperson of the Patient Services committee of the American Lung association, announced a program to loan special breathing machines to victims of lung disease recently. Loans will be made to those patients who need the machines for home care, but who can't afford to rent or buy them.

The breathing machines, called I.P.P.B.'s, for Intermittent Positive Pressure Breathing, are designed to force medication, mixed with air, deep into the lungs. The limited number of machines available were all donated to the Lung association, and will be loaned out on an indefinite time basis free of charge.

According to Dr. Barstow, the I.P.P.B.'s will be loaned to patients with lung diseases like emphysema, asthma, and chronic bronchitis upon prescription by their physicians. Arrangements have been made with volunteer respiratory therapists through Foothill college for instructing the patients in the use of the I.P.P.B.'s and for periodic cleaning of the machines.

Patients' qualification to receive the I.P.P.B.'s will be decided by their own physicians on the basis of medical and financial situation.

Any person in need of an I.P.P.B. breathing machine is urged to call the American Lung Association of Santa Clara - San Benito counties at 295-3533.

Eastfield children benefitted from KNTV's Chaffetz contest

Children living at Eastfield, the center for emotionally disturbed children in Campbell, had a whingding of a Christmas party last week (Dec. 18) because John Chaffetz, KNTV sports director, was willing to become a live-in houseboy and general handyman for a week for a young San Jose couple.

Dave and Cindy (Pugh) Gow, a pair of schoolteachers who had been married only three months, won the annual "Why I Want to Win John Chaffetz" contest sponsored by KNTV. Funds donated to Eastfield by participants went for the party and will be used to purchase items for the children being treated at the United Fund agency.

Chaffetz reports donations are still being received at the television station and estimates there will be several thousand dollars at the final tally. This will include money from a motorcycle that was donated and is being auctioned.

Rapid transit report for county ordered by Calvo

A report on what Santa Clara county can do to plan rapid transit has been ordered by the county transit district.

District chairman Vic Calvo asked for the report last week from public works director Jim Pott and county executive Howard Campen, stating that "the district has received some deserved criticism for not moving to an integrated system."

Calvo said that rapid transit which would run on a fixed rail is so important "that we better get rolling on it even if we have to use local money."

The report is expected back in January.

Man on the street

What was the best Christmas gift you gave?

Our roving reporter visited the San Tomas Plaza shopping center last week to ask: "What was the favorite gift you gave this Christmas?"

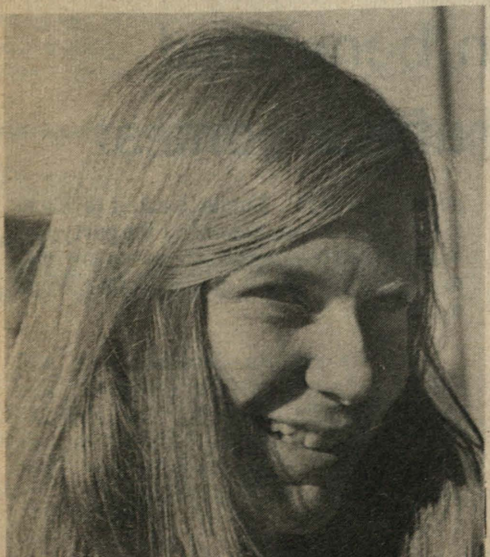
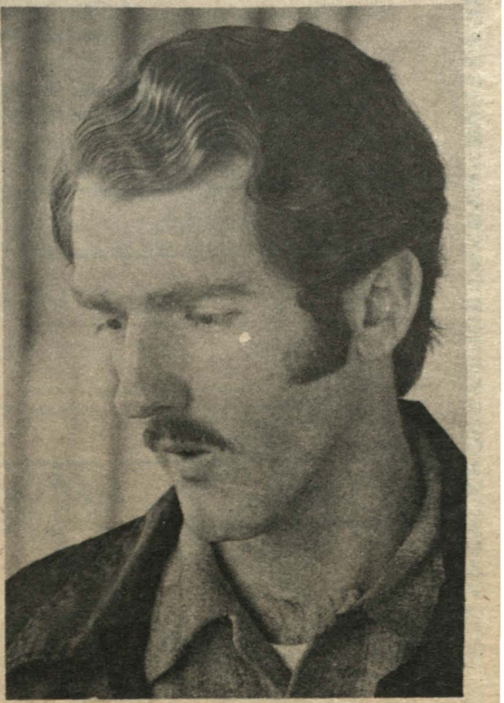
Kitty Anderson, homemaker: "What I made myself. Candy with walnuts I shelled myself. I made fudge for my family."

Kenny Medlin, 9: "A cross to my Mom." Mark Douglas, 10: "A silver necklace for my Mom." Steve Robertson, 10: "An ashtray, with a design on it, for my mother."



Maureen Lightbody, homemaker: "The love I'm giving to my husband and my new baby daughter."



Don Graves, custodian: "Love, for my wife Gloria."

At WVC nursery

A holiday feast prepared by tots

COOKIES are always part of the holiday season as this lad learns early in life. He, and other youngsters three to five years of age, are enrolled in the West Valley college nursery school.

Beginning with the selection of their own Christmas tree, the youngsters then planned, prepared (with help) and then ate a real holiday dinner.

During the year the three to five year-olds have also participated in such activities as train rides, and visits to the zoo.

In order to enroll in the school, at least one of the parents must be enrolled in one course in the nursery school program.

Three-year-olds meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings while four-year-olds attend Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Those parents interested in enrolling their children for the 1974 fall program should contact Mrs. Evelyn Weisberg, director; at 867-2200, ext. 265.

"STEADY NOW" says student teacher Bruce Conrad as Donnie Lofland helps with the Christmas tree he and the other students picked out and cut themselves.

STUFFING the turkey is a joint project at the West Valley college nursery school. Above, Bradley Giannini, Lara Hallam and Julie Whittlesey help prepare the "big bird."

Santa Cruz is first home for newlywed Phillips

Robert and Molly Phillips

The Rev. Marshall Wickham officiated at the wedding rites as Molly Eugenia Ford became the bride of Robert Michael Phillips in St. Francis Episcopal church in San Jose.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gervais W. Ford of San Jose, the bride is a graduate of Del Mar high school and a June graduate of California state university, Chico.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Phillips, is a graduate of Cupertino high school, attended De Anza college and is also a graduate of California state university, Chico.

The wedding gown, made by the bride, was of antique white and French lace with pink trim. Her headpiece was a wreath of flowers and her bouquet was of pink baby roses, baby's breath and violets.

Her maid of honor, Karen Freitas, wore a floor length print gown in pink and violet and wore a headpiece of bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

The groom's mother was attired in a floor length green knit gown with a jacket. She wore a corsage of baby yellow roses.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. H. W. Deegan, from Washington state, attended the ceremonies, as did Mrs. Jack Richards, the bride's maternal aunt.

Installation ceremonies for Order of Eastern Star

"Faith is the Key to a Brighter Tomorrow," was the theme at installation ceremonies for Campbell chapter 553, Order of Eastern Star.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosendale were installed as worthy patron and worthy matron at the ceremonies held at the Los Gatos Masonic Temple. Association patron and matron are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nash.

Other officers include: Virginia Ferrick, secretary; Dorothy Iverson, treasurer; Nelda Smith, conductress; Betty Donahue, associate conductress, and Myrtle Antcliff, organist.

Vince Volkey will serve as chaplain while others installed included: Barbara Roark, marshal; Frances Schlueter, Adah; Ethel Kygar, Ruth; Sharon Buchner, Ester; Joan Hines, Martha; Linda Lema, Electa; Frances Lawson, warder, and Winfred Peterson, sentinel.

DEMONSTRATING one of a number of telescopes to be used at the Jan. 11 and 12 special planetarium show on the comet Kohoutek is West Valley astronomy instructor Tom Bullock. These two evenings, from 6 to 8 p.m., a special show will be held, followed by viewing of Kohoutek through the college's telescopes. For reservations call 379-9415.

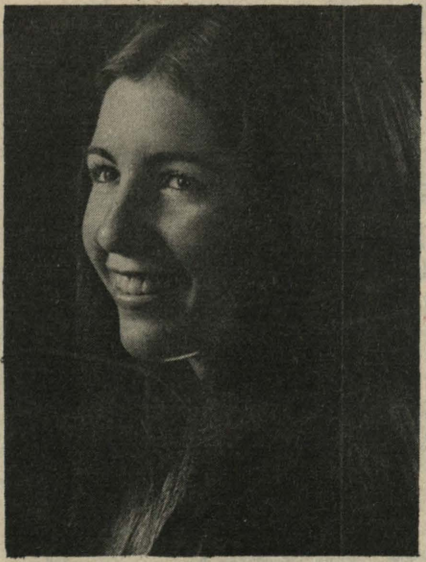
Kohoutek show at WVC

That new darling of the celestial skies — Kohoutek — will be visible to area residents on Jan. 11 and 12.

On those two days West Valley college will put on a special planetarium show each half hour from 6 — 8 p.m. in order to give residents background on the comet and a chance to actually view the comet.

Reservations for the show must be made by calling community services, at 379-9415.

D'Avis contract renewed by school trustees



BRIDE-TO-BE Gayle Ann Cummings

The announcement of the engagement of Cayle Ann Cummings to John Robert Tonkin was made at a dinner party in the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph A. Cummings, 456 Manchester avenue. In attendance were relatives of the young couple.

Gayle attended local grammar schools, West Valley College, and is now attending San Jose state university where she is majoring in child development. She is also employed by the dress shop in the Westgate shopping center.

Her fiance, son of Robert Tonkin of Scotts Valley and Ruth Johnson of Concord, graduated from Santa Clara high school and attended West Valley college. He served in the U.S. Army and is presently employed as a draftsman for a refrigeration company.

The couple plans a February wedding.

Peace on earth sign is legal

That famed "peace on earth" sign atop "The Towers," which created widespread attention last year although there was some question of its legality, is in place again this year — legally.

Approval has been given by the planning commission. The building department has issued a building permit, after inspection from a safety point of view.

The necessary guy wires and bolts have been put in place.

There is one change from last year, however.

The sign will not be lit because of the energy crisis.

On the hot corner

By DICK SPARRER

Sports Editor

OUT WITH THE OLD year and on with the new! It's time to bid a fond farewell to 1973 and look ahead to 1974.

But welcoming in a new year doesn't just mean that it's time to break out the old six pack for a New Year's Day filled with football. It's also a time to look ahead to see what's in store for 1974.

There are very few things in life that one can really count on — but one thing's for sure, every year starts out full of sports.

It all starts on New Year's Day with a complete list of bowl games, from the Rose Bowl to the Sugar Bowl, from the Cotton Bowl to the Orange Bowl, from the Fruit Bowl to the Soup Bowl.

And then it goes on to the Super Bowl, the Pro Bowl, the Super-Pro Bowl and all the others.

THOSE FINAL FOOTBALL games will just kick-off the sports activity for the whole year. And we can expect a lot from the sports world in the year to come.

Like this baseball season, don't be surprised to read this:

The Oakland A's are set to open their 1974 season this week in the only night game scheduled in the major leagues.

Doing their bit to help out during the energy crisis, major league baseball has cut down on the number of night games to be scheduled for 1974.

But, not to be outdone, Charles O. Finley has once again gone against the rest of organized baseball.

Finley, the current A's field boss in the absence of Dick Williams (who, it was rumored, last week purchased a New York Yankee season ticket), has hired 876 girls in hot pants to circle the field holding lighted candles.

Maybe in the dim, flickering candlelight the fans won't notice the missing veterans, all but Campy Campaneris still holding out with unsigned '74 contracts. Then again, maybe in the dim, flickering candlelight, Finley won't notice there aren't any fans!

AND IN THE MIDST of the energy crisis, don't be surprised if the gas shortage hits sports hard:

Professional sports has taken the current gas shortage right in stride. Despite the shortage that's limited citizens to just a dollar's worth (one gallon) of gasoline per week, the owners have come up with a solution to the problem.

So the 1974 football season will get off to its start on schedule this weekend with the New York Giants battling the New York Jets, the New York Cardinals against the New York Rams, the New York Raiders versus the New York Dolphins . . .

This could be a year of firsts in the world of sports:

THE FIRST ANNUAL Little League all-America baseball team has been selected and was announced recently by officials in Williamsport, Pennsylvania.

The team, picked by the parents of little league players from all over the nation, was finalized after a three month long meeting and finally named by nine sets of parents who remained.

Picked to the team were three shortstops, five pitchers and one girl.

Yes, girls have finally broken the sex barrier in little league baseball and one even managed to gain an all-American berth. But now that they're there, involved in little league baseball, that is, many must be wondering why they ever wanted to get there in the first place. Of course, it couldn't have anything to do with little league parents!

SO, THE 1974 little league baseball season is just history now. And the youngsters of little league baseball and their parents have now settled down for a long winter's nap. But before the gloves get a chance to dry out or weeds start to grow on the pitcher's mound or the rabbit jumps out of the baseballs, the moms and dads will once again be out in force to cheer junior (or princess) on to a great 1975 baseball season.

And so goes the mighty world of sport, with its surprises and its traditions. You don't believe any of the aforementioned will occur during 1974, huh?

Well, just remember where you heard it first when Charlie Finley signs Kathy Keystone to a six figure contract and starts her at second base for the New York A's under candlelight at Yankee stadium!

Did I hear someone call me a prophet — or was it someone saying, "He's full of . . ." Happy New Year.

Mites, Squirts idle

Hockey action light during the holidays

THERE'S NO PLACE like home for the holidays. And nobody knows that better than the teams of the Santa Clara ice hockey association.

The five local hockey teams will play a skeleton schedule in Northern California junior hockey association play until they return to regular action Jan. 5 and 6.

The Midgets are the only icers forced to the rink this weekend when they host Hayward Saturday in a 4:15 p.m. game on the Eastridge ice.

In their most recent game, the Midgets dropped a 6-3 decision to Stockton on the winner's surface. Dick Stack, Richard Fazzi and Barry Kitchin scored for the locals in the losing cause.

While the Mites and Squirts were both idle, the Pee Wees and Bantams each posted victories.

A 10-0 triumph over Stockton kept the Pee Wees in first place in the southern division, a game ahead of Belmont.

THE VICTORY RAN the Pee Wees' record to 8-3 for the season and their 10 goals ran their season output to 61. They have allowed just 19.

Drew Henry and Dan Quan shared the duties in the net for the locals in the shutout. Glen Caurfield led all Eastridge scorers with four goals and Steve Powers added two. Wayne Powers, Michael Porowski, Peter Verbica and Jim McIntyre each tallied one in the win.

The Bantams ran their season record to 5-6 with a 3-1 victory over Stockton. Steve Driscal cracked in two goals and Scot Edward added one in the win.

Both the idle Eastridge clubs, the Mites and Squirts, held their league leads through their week off.

The Mites are 10-0 on the year and sit two games ahead of the rest of the pack. They have allowed just seven goals in the 10 contests while scoring 112, an average of more than 11 a game.

EASTRIDGE GOALIE Andy Buchanan boasts the best average in the league for allowing goals per game. Buchanan, who also tops the league in shut-outs with seven, had given up just an average of 0.44 goals per game. He had 48 saves through nine games.

Rick Pitta was the Mites scoring leader through Dec. 3 with 23 goals and 15 assists. Kevin Breault, 19 goals and 16 assists, Brad Cohen, 13 goals and 10 assists, Stephen Bell, 10 goals and 13 assists, and Gordon Burkitt, 16 goals and four assists, all placed in the league's top 10 in scoring.

Pitta and Breault each have notched four hat tricks and Burkitt three.

The Squirts are also 10-0 and two games ahead of the field. They have tallied 97 goals and given up just nine.

Carl Cook has handled things in the Squirt goal and boasts a low 0.67 per game average. Cook has blocked 59 shots and recorded five shut-outs.

GREG POWERS LED the locals in scoring with 22 goals and 10 assists. Joey Driscal, 11 goals and 16 assists, Pat Elias, 17 goals and nine assists, Norm Rose, 10 goals and 13 assists, and Dallas Denery, nine goals and 11 assists, each picked up spots in the league's top 10 scoring list.

Powers is the league's hat trick leader with six and Elias has three.

The southern division leading Pee Wees are sparked by the scoring of W. Powers and the goal tending of Quan and Henry.

Powers has scored 11 goals and has notched 10 assists and stands seventh on the league scoring list. S. Powers ranks 11th in the league with eight goals and nine assists.

Henry has given up only 11 goals and Quan just eight more for the Pee Wees. Henry has given up just 1.77 goals per game and has 74 saves. Quan has allowed 2.11 goals a game and has blocked 55 shots.

STEVE McCARGO AND Steve Driscal each stand in the top 10 scoring list in the Bantam division even though their club is mired in the middle of the pack.

McCargo has scored 16 goals and has 10 assists to rank fourth in the division in scoring and Driscal has popped 11 goals and has nine assists to rank eighth.

John Shaw and Greg Pimental have shared time in the goal for the Bantams. Pimental, in six games, has given up just 10 goals, an average of 2.33 a game. He has 70 saves. Shaw, in seven games, has allowed 31 goals, 5.42 a game, and has logged 130 saves.

Stuck with an 0-8 record, the Midgets sit in fourth place in the southern division. They have scored just 18 goals while giving up 58. Kitchin is the club's top scorer and Mike Rosinski and Pimental have each shared time in the goal. Rosinski has notched 200 saves.

Male physique contest at fairgrounds Jan. 10

Paul Love of San Jose, winner of the Mr. West Coast title in the annual AAU-sanctioned male physique competition in San Jose, returns to defend his title on Friday, Jan. 11.

Love was named Mr. Pacific Coast for 1972 and then won the Mr. West Coast crown in 1973 in the competition, which is part of the annual San Jose Autorama at the Santa Clara County fairgrounds.

Active in the San Jose YMCA's physical development program, Love this year added three lesser trophies to the Mr. West Coast honor, picking up awards for best arms, best legs and best back.

Oakland's Nathan LeBlanc was second to Love in the rigid AAU judging this year and Chuck Francilotte of San Jose placed third. LeBlanc won the other two special awards, for best chest and best abdominals.

Winner of the second physique competition at the Autorama, the title of Mr. Greater Bay Area for 1973, was Jerry Lincoln of San Jose, also expected to defend his honor in the double meet.

Lincoln was trailed in the 1973 placings by Ben Crawford of San Francisco and Mike Gilligan of San Jose. A crowd in excess of 2,000 watched the competition.

SJCC sets final all-comers meet

The final all-comers meet for December at San Jose city college will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 29.

It's the last meet of the year (1973) but not of the season. All-comers meets at SJCC will be held Jan. 5, 12 and 26 and Feb. 2 on the Jag oval on Moorpark avenue.

The entry fee is 25 cents per event and competition is on the high school and open levels.

Quarter inch spikes or flats are required on the all-weather track and weightmen must bring their own equipment.

Spinners unravel SACL

In the true Christmas spirit, the San Jose Spinners wheelchair basketball team believed in giving recently in their benefit game with state and community leaders (SACL).

The Spinners presented the SACL team with 10 "gift" points at the start of each quarter and still pulled out a 67-55 decision at Pioneer high school.

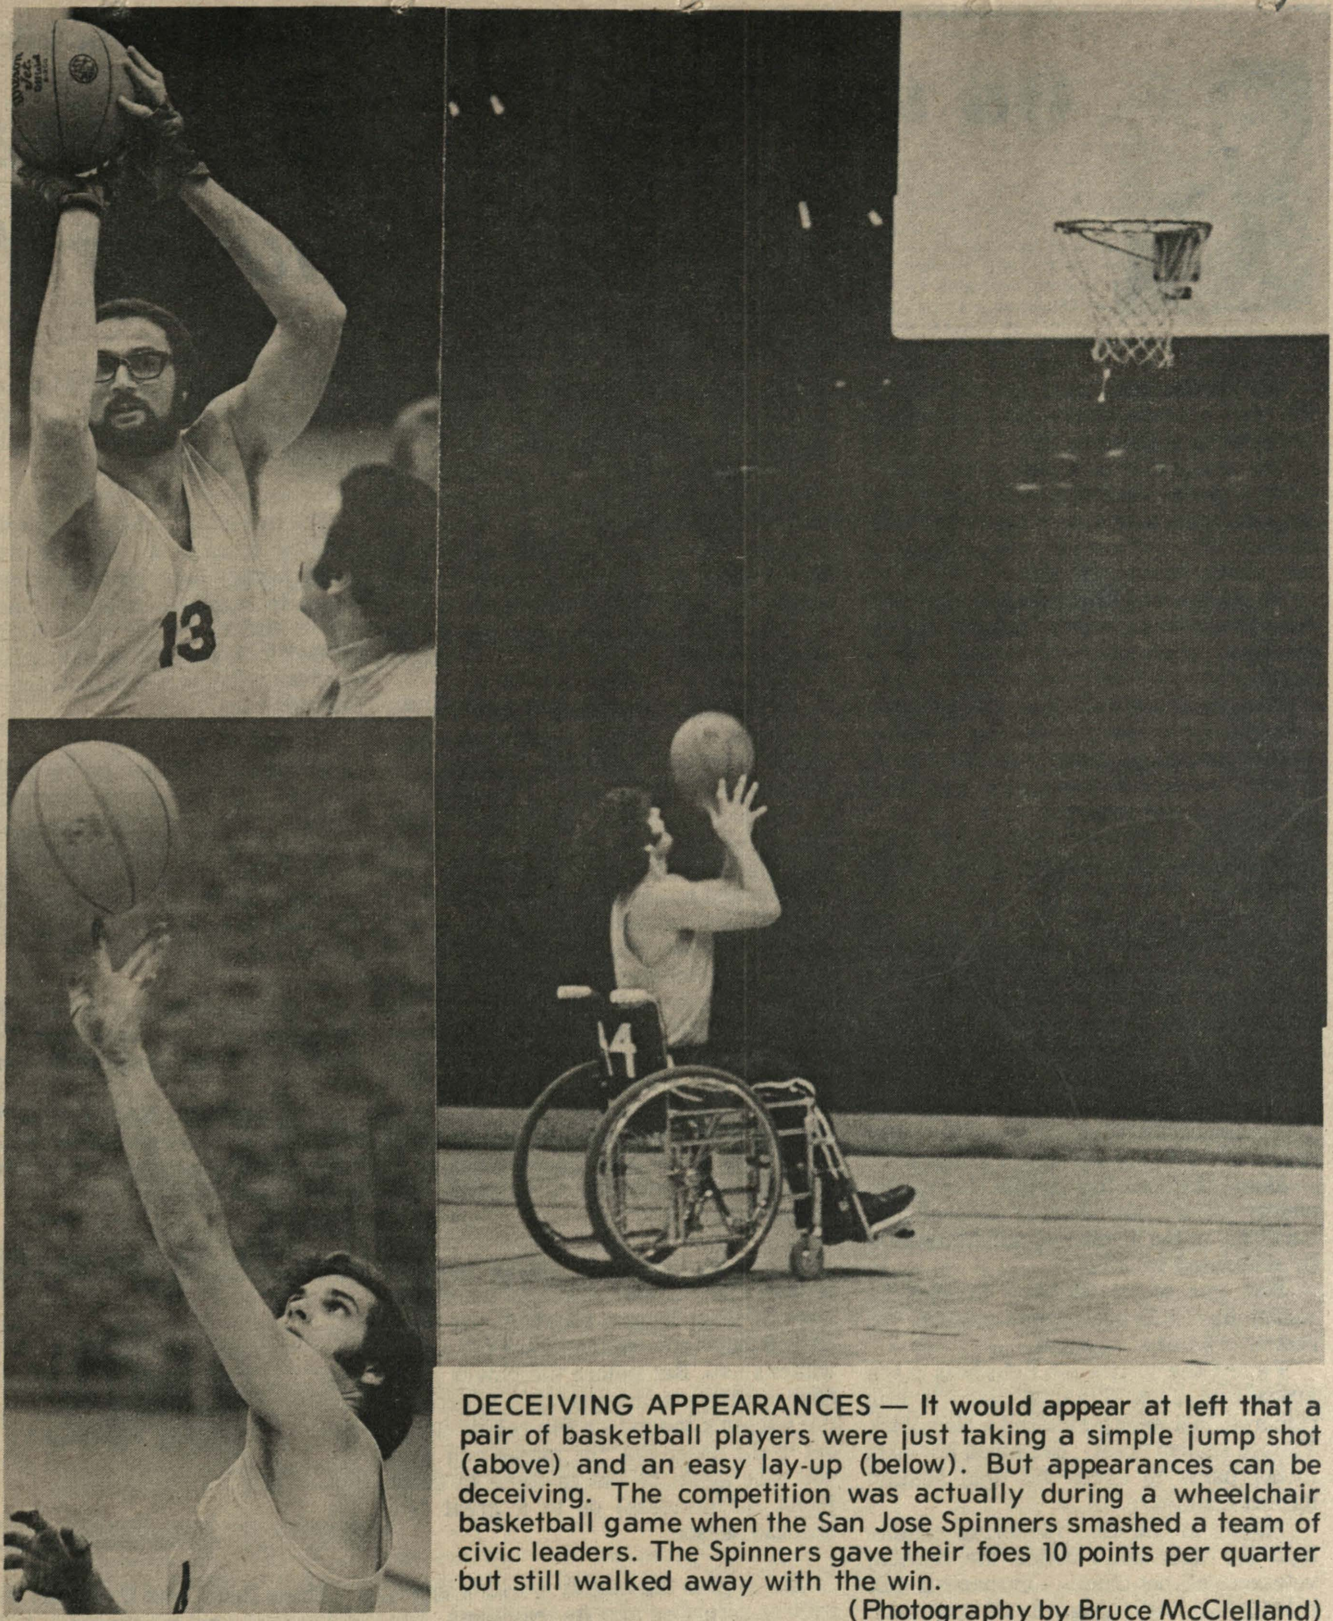
The Spinners belong to the Northern California handicapped league and play other wheelchair basketball teams in the league including Fresno, Palo Alto, Sacramento and San Francisco.

Proceeds from the benefit contest went to the league to help in defraying the costs of travel within the loop.

Aside from the 10 point lead SACL was spotted at the start of the first quarter, the closest the game got was 28-26 in favor of the Spinners midway through the second stanza.

But for the remainder of the first half the Spinners ran circles around their opponents while reeling off 10 unanswered points, giving them a comfortable 38-26 lead at the half.

Dominic Cortese, a member of the Santa Clara board of supervisors, was in the celebrity group playing against the Spinners. Susan Wallace was the game's referee.



DECEIVING APPEARANCES — It would appear at left that a pair of basketball players were just taking a simple jump shot (above) and an easy lay-up (below). But appearances can be deceiving. The competition was actually during a wheelchair basketball game when the San Jose Spinners smashed a team of civic leaders. The Spinners gave their foes 10 points per quarter but still walked away with the win.

When the Seals are away — the Warriors will play

AS THE OLD SAYING goes, "When the cat's away, the mice will play!" But in the Oakland-Coliseum arena they've changed the wording a bit. "When the Seals are away, the Warriors will play!"

The ice will be picked up and stored away Thursday and Saturday and it will be replaced with hardwood when the Warriors host Portland and Los Angeles in 8:05 p.m. games.

The Golden Staters, NBA Western Conference leaders of the Pacific division, will be out to pick up crucial wins over LA and the Trail Blazers, second and third in the division.

The Blazers will visit the Coliseum arena for a Thursday game and two days later Gail Goodrich, averaging over 25 points a game, will lead the Lakers into Warriorland.

Sunday the Warriors head for Seattle for a 7 p.m. game that will be televised to the area over KTVU channel 2. All games are aired over KEEN radio (1370).

BUT BETWEEN Warrior games this week the Seals will return home for a Friday night battle with the New York Islanders at 8 p.m.

The Islanders are struggling in seventh place of the NHL Eastern division, just as the Seals are struggling in the cellar of the Western division.

The Seals will return home Sunday for a 7 p.m. clash with the Eastern division leading Boston Bruins. NHL scoring leaders Phil Esposito, Bobby Orr and Ken Hodge will showcase their talents in the Sunday evening battle.

All games will be aired over KEEN radio (1370). Tickets can be purchased at the Coliseum box office for both Seal and Warrior games and also locally at San Jose box office.

Live Oak basketball

Biondi, Laspina cop all-tourney berths

TONY BIONDI AND Tom Laspina copped all-tournament berths for their respective schools recently in action at the 13th annual Live Oak invitational basketball tournament.

Biondi picked up an all-tourney berth for Lincoln with the Lions pulling in with a fourth place finish at the event.

Laspina helped Prospect to the consolation finals and was awarded an all-tourney berth for his efforts. The Panthers had to settle for sixth when they lost the consolation title to San Jose 55-50.

Lincoln won its opener 55-46 over Milpitas to jump into the championship bracket. Biondi and Brad Walker each bombed 18 points to lead the Lion win.

In their next outing the Lions were nipped 46-45 by Fremont. Allen Stewart led Lincoln scorers with 19 and Walker and Biondi each hit 10.

FREMONT WENT OUT to a 13-10 first quarter lead but Lincoln tied it by the half 25-25. In the third the Lions were outscored 15-9 and, even though they posted a bit of a comeback in the fourth, lost by a point.

They sent Lincoln into the fight for third place with host Live Oak. The Acorns came on strong in the second half to post a 44-41 victory.

Lincoln outscored their hosts 28-19 in the first half but Live Oak came on with 25 points in the second half and Lincoln managed only 13. The crucial period was the fourth when the Lions were outsocred 13-4.

Stewart hit 17 and Walker and Biondi each got eight in the losing cause.

PROSPECT GOT OFF to a different start, losing its opener 46-36 to Fremont, and headed into the consolation bracket. Jeff Walters led the Panthers in the opener with 11 points. Chuck Browning got seven and Paspina six.

The Panthers came back to take Milpitas 55-52 to gain a berth in the consolation finals. Bob Marsh hit 16 and Laspina 15 to lead the Panther show. Browning got eight points in the game and Walters six.

But in the consolation finals the Panthers were nosed 55-50 by San Jose. A big fourth period lifted SJ to the victory. The Bulldogs topped Prospect 23-15 in that fourth after trailing by as much as 15 points in the third stanza.

Marsh led a balanced scoring attack for Prospect with 10. Browning got nine, Walters and Laspina eight each, and Jay Potts and Mark Samson six apiece.

In recent non-league activity, the Lions battled Cubberly but fell 62-47 on the winner's floor. Tim Cone hit 12 points and Walker and Biondi each got eight. Mike Arrington bombed seven and Stephen Lettrich, Gary Green and Carlos Castillo got four each.

Lincoln runnerup

Cats cop Campbell crown —Bucs Karasek is MVP

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER honors in basketball tournament action usually go to a player on the championship team, whether one is deserving or not. But that's not what happened at the third annual Campbell frosh-soph cage tournament Dec. 12-14.

Even though Campbell finished fourth in the event, Buccaneer Joe Karasek was named the event's most valuable player.

Los Gatos high won the tournament with a victory over second place Lincoln in the finals. The Cats topped Hill in their opener and took Branham in their second game to reach the finals. Lincoln had beaten Prospect and Campbell to get to the championship clash.

Campbell and Branham met for the third place trophy and the Bruins took a 50-48 decision. Campbell had to settle for fourth.

LELAND PICKED UP THE consolation title with a win over Pioneer. Leland, after falling to Branham in the first round, took Hill and Pioneer for fifth. Pioneer was sixth, Hill seventh and Prospect eighth.

Karasek picked up top individual honors with his selection as the MVP of the tourney.

The coaches and officials would rate the top three players in each game. At the end of the tourney, all of the ballots would be totalled to determine the all-tournament team.

Karasek took top honors and was joined on the first team by Jack Ladesma of Lincoln, Holden Smith of Los Gatos, Kevin Smith of Branham and Phil Shannon of Leland.

ALL-TOURNAMENT honorable mention picks included Steve Heidler of Campbell, Mike Jones of Pioneer, Dave Hopp of Los Gatos, Steve Burnett of Branham and Junior Montalongo of Lincoln.

MVP Karasek averaged 10 points and 15 rebounds a game for the fourth place Bucs in the tournament. Heidler averaged 11 points a game and Buc Gerald Buchman, Greg Turner and Tommy Smith eight points each per game.

After whipping Pioneer 46-39 in the first round, Campbell lost a pair of heartbreakers and had to settle for fourth. They dropped a tight 52-48 decision to Lincoln before losing to Branham 50-48. Heidler's 13 topped Campbell against Branham.

'Good size'

'Talented' Dons still looking for combination

"We have pretty fair talent," noted Del Mar cage coach Dave Morgan. "We just haven't found the right combination yet."

But when the Dons do come up with the right combination, there is a good possibility that they will be battling for their third straight West Valley athletic league championship.

"Right now it's just a matter of finding out who's going to play where," Morgan added. "We should be pretty good."

One thing the Dons will have going for them is size. The Del Mar front line could wind up averaging 6'4," which isn't too bad for a high school club.

The Don's big man will be returning all-leaguer Mark Bruening, 6'7." He is just one of two varsity lettermen from last year's championship squad. Guard George Todd is the only other Del Mar letterman.

Battling for the two forward spots next to Bruening will be Joe Baker, 6'5", twins Kevin and Kelly Linnane, both 6'4", Andy Mahler, 6'3", and John Mackay, 6'3". The other guard will more than likely be Steve Wehr, one of the Don's top scorers in the pre-season.

The Dons, who were 23-5 last year, will have their hands full trying to repeat as champs again this season. Morgan feels Camden, Westmont, Saratoga, Prospect and Branham are all teams to be reckoned with in 1974.

Del Mar, 1-2 so far in the pre-season, opens its 1974 West Valley athletic league slate Thursday, Jan. 3 at Branham in a 3:30 p.m. contest.

'Hurting on the boards'

Blackford faces '74 cage season with small Braves

If it's true what they say that basketball is a big man's game, then the Blackford Braves could be in for a very long season.

"We're very small," moaned Blackford coach Harry Harrington. "We've been hurting on the boards in the pre-season."

The Braves, averaging less than 6'1" along the forward line, have dropped their first five games of the season to Buchser, Peterson, Wilcox, Lincoln and Leland.

The lone bright spot in the Brave's dismal start has been center Wayne Hagin, 6'1" and 160 pounds, who has been Blackford's leading scorer and rebounder.

An all-league candidate according to Harrington, Hagin has averaged 14 points and 12 rebounds a game so far for Blackford.

The guard posts are handled by junior Rich Garcia and senior David Nobles.

Others expected to help the Braves this season are guard Butch Rowe, normally a starter currently sidelined with a broken ankle, Kevin Allen, Tom Blandford, Ken Ucci and Ted Inamasu.

Blackford opens its regular West Valley athletic league season Thursday, Jan. 3 at home against Los Altos in a 3:30 p.m. contest.

Warriors last chance in non-league game Friday

The Westmont Warrior basketball squad gets their last chance to sharpen up for the West Valley athletic league season Friday night when they play their final non-league contest of the year.

The Warriors, 2-2 after four games, close out their pre-season slate with an 8:30 p.m. game against Memorial of Newark on Westmont's home court.

The Warriors won't play again until Jan. 3 when they initiate their 1974 WVAL season at home against Campbell in a 3:30 p.m. contest.

Westmont will play Saratoga the next night in a 8:30 p.m. battle on the Falcon's hardcourt.

Westmont, after winning their first two games of the season, dropped their second in a row last week when Soquel dumped them 61-53.

"We didn't play very well," said a disappointed Gary Brinck, Westmont's head coach. "We were very poor rebounding."

Some of Westmont's rebounding woes will be cured in time for league play when center Dave Watson (6'4") will return to the line-up after missing the entire pre-season with an injured back.

The Warriors could have used Watson's rebounding abilities against Soquel, which outrebounded Westmont nearly 2-1.

"We outscored them from the field," noted Brinck. "But they beat us at the foul line and on the boards."

Vikes' worst start

Tourney win snaps WVC longest cage losing string

It took them longer than ever before, but the West Valley college basketball team finally registered its first win of the season.

And the Vikings went out the next night and won another game, enabling them to bag the consolation championship in the annual Cabrillo classic.

The back-to-back wins snapped an eight game losing streak, the worst start in WVC history.

"We player very intelligently during the whole tournament. I knew the potential was there," said El Brown, West Valley's head coach. "In fact, the last four games we played have been good ones."

But West Valley enjoyed its "best game of the year" when they rallied in the second half to whip Diablo Valley 86-77 for the consolation championship.

Paul Arace (Del Mar), coming off of a poor two point performance against Monterey, drilled home a personal season high 25 points to key the Viking triumph.

Arace connected on 10 of 17 (58.8 per cent) shots from the field and five of seven from the free throw line to go along with four rebounds and three assists from his guard spot.

The unsung hero of the night had to be center John Freeman (Leland), who enjoyed a super night. The 6'4" frontliner canned 20 points, collected seven caroms and handed out one assist.

Freeman was particularly tough at the free throw line, sinking 10 of 12 charity tosses. He was also a sparkling 5 of 7 (71.4 per cent) from the floor.

Craig Perkins (Saratoga), who like Arace has really started to come on, chipped in with 15 points, grabbed six rebounds and dealt out three assists from his forward position.

The Vikes registered their first win of the season the night before when they dumped Monterey 55-48.

Bill Magnuson (Blackford) turned in his finest performance of the year to pace the Vikes offensively with 15 points.

Perkins drilled in 12 points and Becker and Mark Williams (Los Gatos) each contributed eight to support Magnuson's effort.

Although the Vikes lost their tourney opener to Moorpark of Los Angeles 58-52, Brown was still pleased with the way WVC performed.

Leland tipped in consolation

Buchser beats Bells, wins own tournament

IT SEEMS MORE often than not that a host basketball team is reaching the finals of its own tournament — especially this season.

But when they get to that championship game, most host schools seem to be folding.

Well, Buchser didn't fold when it hosted its 11th annual tournament recently and claimed a 51-44 win over Bellarmine to notch the title.

The Bells logged a strong effort in the game, outscoring the Bruins 15-8 in the first quarter and holding their lead with an even second stanza.

But the Bruins put 30 points on the boards in the second half to only 16 for Bellarmine to claim the victory.

Bellarmine was sparked by the play of John Mahaney and Ray Fellows in the game. Mahaney led Bell scorers with 13 and Fellows chipped in with 10. Tim Schmidt added eight.

THE BELLS reached the championship game with wins over Monta Vista and Mt. Pleasant.

Mahaney canned 12 to lead Bellarmine to a 42-37 second round win over MP. The two teams went into the fourth period tied at 28-28 but the Bells outscored the Cards 14-9 in the stanza to snatch the victory.

Leland's Chargers lost their opening round game 73-45 to Mitty but battled back to bomb Blackford 71-34 to get a spot in the consolation finals.

LELAND WAS TIPPED 46-39 by Monta Vista in the fight for the consolation crown and had to settle for sixth.

The Chargers went out to a 10-5 lead in the first period but MV came back to tie it 22-22 at the half. Vista outscored Leland 10-5 in the third and 14-12 in the fourth to coast to the win.

Against Blackford Bob Isaacson bombed for 25 points to lead the Leland charge. It was a big second half by Leland that lifted them to victory. They tallied 45 points in the last two periods and gave up just eight to Blackford. It was tied 26-26 at the half.

Rich Garcia led the Braves in scoring in the game with 12 and Wayne Hagin added 10.

Blackford lost its opener in the tourney 90-55 to Buchser and fell in the finale 64-44 to Wilcox. Hagin got 14 and Jim Darnall 14 in the opening loss to Buchser and Darnell got 12 and Dan Bongiovanni eight in the loss to Wilcox.

Mt. Pleasant whipped Wilcox in its opener and then fell in two tries to end up fourth at the Buchser event.

FRANK CHANDLER and Glenn Simmons each canned 11 points and Roy Joshua popped nine in the 42-37 loss to Bellarmine.

In the fight for third place against Mitty, MP lost a heartbreaker 44-43.

The Cards held a 19-10 lead at the half before Mitty poured through 20 in the third to make things close at 31-30. The Monarchs outscored MP 9-8 in the fourth period to send the contest into overtime.

The two teams played it scoreless through the first overtime stanza but Mitty outpointed the Cards 5-4 in the second period to win the third place trophy.

Simmons led MP with 16 points and Ken Downey chipped in the 13 in the losing effort.

0-3 against GGC

WVC 2-0 for CNC-- doormat for GGC foes

Fortunately for the West Valley college wrestling team, the Vikings are still in the Camino Norte conference.

Because if they were in the Golden Gate conference, as they will be next year, their league record would be a dismal 0-3 instead of 2-0.

The Vikings lost their third non-conference match to a GGC squad last Tuesday evening, suffering a 36-3 setback at the hands of Diablo Valley.

Only Jamie Wheeler (Campbell), at 126 pounds, was able to chalk up an individual win on the night for WVC, edging his opponent 7-3.

The other two GGC clubs West Valley has lost to were Chabot and San Jose city college. Chabot and DVC are ranked one-two in northern California.

While the Vikes have been having their problems winning non-conference matches, West Valley took a giant stride towards claiming their first ever CNC wrestling crown recently when they beat defending loop champion De Anza 27-12.

The Vikings, who had never beaten De Anza on the mats, raised their CNC record to 2-0.

"It was a real good effort by everybody," said a jubilant Jim Root. "The thing now is not to let up."

Root noted the Vikes still have three tough matches left with Solano, Foothill and Santa Rosa.

Back-to-back wins by Gary Russell (Leigh) and Kevin Locke (Buchser) at 150 and 158 pounds, respectively, keyed the Vike's mild upset of the defending CNC champion Dons.

Leading just 9-6 heading into 150's, heavy underdog Russell stunned De Anza ace Peter Arano 8-4, giving West Valley a big psychological lift.

Locke followed Russell's superb performance with a clutch pin, lifting the Vike's into a commanding 18-6 lead.

Tom O'Keefe (Branham) continued the Viking blitz at 167 with a decisive 13-5 triumph.

Buddy Rodriguez (Camden), 190, wrestling in his first match of the year, then clinched the victory with a 10-3.

Harold Robertson (Del Mar) added the icing on the cake at heavyweight with a tough 5-2 win.

Mike Silva (Branham) and Jamie Wheeler (Campbell) accounted for the Vike's nine points in the lower weights. Silva edged his man 8-6 at 134 while still unbeaten Wheeler won by forfeit at 126.

The Viking's registered another WVC first by picking up the school's first tournament wrestling trophy, bagging a third at the San Francisco state tournament out of 19 schools.

Only Cyprus of Los Angeles and Diablo Valley finished ahead of the Vikings, who accumulated 42 points and finished ahead of San Joaquin Delta and San Jose city college, two teams that had beaten WVC earlier in the season.

Wheeler romped to his third individual tournament championship in as many tourneys by winning six bouts at 118.

Wheeler, who is now 19-0 on the year, triumphed 8-2 in his finals bout after winning his first five matches in the following fashion: 24-0, pin in 1:06, 13-0, 8-3 and 6-0.

Robertson, Locke and Ben Navarrete (Santa Clara) were the only other Viking Placers.

Locke and Navarrete both picked up fourths.
